There's a bright future for International Professionals and students who want an H1B visa to live and work in America.

85,000 H1B work visas / permits

+ 140,000 Green Cards

+ 66,000 H2B visas are available for 2009 (read below for details)

Obtaining a USA work visa in today's challenging and competitive market is not easy

But.... thousands of people from all over the world - will succeed

* This could be your best chance and best year to actually obtain and be issued a US work visa

International professionals and graduates are still in high demand by US employers - find out why >>

Due to the fact that US employers are limited by the annual quota to hiring a total of 85,000 International professionals and students on H1B visas - for the whole year - within a very short 3-4 month timeframe (before the quota is reached) --- coupled with the limited and restricted times they can recruit and can file H1B visa applications - the demand for Foreign 'H1B' workers (skilled/educated specialty professions) is always exceptionally high at this time of year, in any economic conditions.

Proactive & positive people are finding employment opportunities for the next H1B quota, by using solutions designed to overcome today's competitive H1B market conditions - << START HERE >>

The 2 key periods for the H1B Visa Program are:

1) November to March - this is when H1B employers recruit & hire Foreign national workers

2) April - this is when H1B employers file visa applications for the Foreign workers they want to hire

* we are now in the H1B recruitment & hiring period - employers are recruiting/jobs are available.

Finding and securing an H1B job with a company that will sponsor/apply for your visa is not 'easy'.

NOW is the best time to start - it's highly advisable to start your search as soon as possible to make sure you and your employer are fully prepared and ready to file your visa application as soon as the filing period opens

* Increase and Improve your chances - START Now »

The 2 biggest challenges you face are:

- 1) finding a job with a company that will sponsor and file for your H1B visa
- 2) you need to find a job with a sponsor company before the annual quota gets reached

* Based on the current market conditions, you need to Start Your H1B Job & Sponsorship search NOW - START HERE >>

The U.S. Government Immigration Bureau released the 'next' quota of 85,000 H1B visas (65,000 regular + 20,000 ADE) on October 1st, 2007 (over 2 months ago)

* all US visa quotas are released in conjunction with the US Govt's Fiscal year - H1B's can't be filed on October 1st, but this marks the start of the main rush by employers to select & hire job seekers (just like you).

This means that 85,000 people from all over the World, or who are already in the USA, will have a new chance to work in the USA next year on an H1B visa.

Many of the top US sponsor companies who were shut out in the cold, due to this years H1B Cap being reached in record time, have started their recruitment & selection process to ensure they get their share of new H1B visa employees - as fast as possible!

As many Fortune 500 companies recently told our H1B Research Group - "International job seekers who do not take action soon, could miss the narrowing chance to work in the US. It is crucial to find an H1B job within the next few months, to stand a chance of being counted towards next years quota". This is the common feeling and sentiments from many of the H1B sponsor companies within our partner network.

There are 140,000 Green Cards through the official 'Employment Based Program' PLUS a total of 85,000 H1B Visas Available, to start work in the USA next year. PLUS a total of 66,000 H2B visas

To get an H1B or H2B Visa or Green Card -- You MUST first find a Job with a U.S. Company that is willing to employ and Sponsor (apply for) your visa application on your behalf * individuals can NOT file / apply for US work visas - only US employers can file).
